New Deputy Clerk: Diana Rumage

On June 20, 2023 Diana Rumage assumed the position of Deputy Clerk for Delaware Township and, according to a long-time Township employee, "you can't give her a job she can't handle." Diana is new to the Township Clerk profession and will begin taking courses at Rutgers in the fall to get her Clerk license. In the meantime, she is enjoying the challenges of the job and says everyone has been welcoming, kind and helpful. In addition to the Deputy Clerk position, Diana is also Secretary to the Board of Health.

Prior to her Deputy Clerk position, Diana worked at Delaware Township school for nine years as a substitute teacher and then as a para-professional. She was also very active in the DTS PiE, serving among other positions as President and Treasurer. Her two sons, now ages 14 and 17, also attended school there. She and her husband moved from Flemington in 2009 and they love it here.

Diana grew up in a suburb of New York where she lived until she was 18 at which time her family moved to Georgia. After graduating from Seton Hall and then the University of Georgia, where she obtained a Masters Degree, Diana worked at an ad agency in New York as an Associate Strategy Director, a job she loved. However, the long hours, travel, and commute time in addition to raising her two sons led to her decision to seek employment closer to home.

In whatever spare time she has, Diana enjoys doing crafts, especially jewelry making and tie dyeing. While working at the school she taught an after-school enrichment class in jewelry making.

We welcome Diana to the Township.

Meet Your Neighbors: Lia Nielsen, Jason Kliwinski, Mary Jane Augustine

by Sally Gullette

Having sat empty for 11 years, the historic 1744 Richard Holcombe house was put up for auction in 2017. Only one bid was offered and Mary Jane, Lia, and Jason won the on-line auction to become owners of the 3,000 square foot house.

So, who are these people who took on this monumental challenge that no one else was willing or able to assume? Lia and Jason are a married couple expecting their first child in November. Mary Jane is Lia's mother. As Jason said in his website blog, "At heart we're a bunch of old house-farm lovers." Lia was raised in the old farm, now Unionville Vineyards, which Mary Jane and her husband purchased in 1980. Jason grew up on his grandparents' micro farm in Pennington.

Jason, an architect and Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Fellow, is the founder of Designs for Life LLC, a residential and commercial architectural firm that focuses on providing healthy and environmentally responsible results. Lia, a construction manager and materials specialist, graduated from Boston University and attended the Rinker School of Building Construction at the University of Florida. She is both a LEED Green Associate and a WELL (Building Standard) Accredited Professional. Mary Jane, formerly a partner in the law firm of McCarter and English, practiced construction law for 40 years. She is also both a LEED and WELL Accredited Professional. Jason and Lia started the Green Building Center in Lambertville and Lia and Mary Jane are the principals of Simply Sustainable which provides sustainable materials and interior design services.

A large sign near the road introduces the public to Gaia's Way Farm (Gaia was the Greek goddess of Earth, mother of all life). The exterior of the house with its wonderful wrap-around porch and the interior have been beautifully transformed with strict adherence to historical preservation. Old photos, many supplied by former inhabitants, helped guide the restoration. Lia and Jason and their three dogs have been living and entertaining in the home for two years. Mary Jane describes it as a great party house that flows from room to room. A conservatory kitchen for Lia, a gourmet cook, was added where an old screened-in porch was attached to the house. Lia's three rescue horses happily graze in the pasture. Plans are in progress to build a home for Mary Jane on an existing foundation near the main house. It will be built to look old but the inside will be designed for people of all mobilities. Note also that the house is completely off the grid, powered by solar and batteries.

For info about this home and to see photos 'before and after,' visit Gaiawayfarm.com.

Non-Profits Partner to Lease Land In Sergeantsville for New Farmers

In 2019, the nonprofit Foodshed Alliance launched the Sustainable Agriculture Enterprise (SAGE) program to provide low-cost, long-term land leases to growers who otherwise couldn't afford to start their own farm businesses. The SAGE program expanded when New Jersey Conservation Foundation leased a 19-acre preserved farm in Sergeantsville to the Foodshed Alliance.

While New Jersey has preserved 33% of its farmland, securing the protection of thousands of fertile acres, the state has some of the US's most expensive farmland, putting land ownership out of reach for many farmers.

Leasing farmland has drawbacks. Most leases are for one year. Farmers with short-term lease arrangements are often hesitant to invest in infrastructure like wells, equipment, and fencing – or in crops that don't immediately produce income, like orchards.

The SAGE program offers 10-year leases at below market rates as an incentive for farmers to invest in their enterprises. In exchange, the Foodshed Alliance requires SAGE farmers to use sustainable, non-chemical growing methods to improve the soil's health and help mitigate climate change. Note that SAGE is not a beginner farmer program; applicants must have prior experience farming and a viable business plan.

Akirah and Mancoba Hlatshwako became the first farmers chosen to sublet part of this property for their nonprofit farm, Ubuntu Permaculture Mission Inc. Mancoba grew up learning indigenous farming practices from his father in the African nation of Swaziland, now known as Eswatini. They are on a mission to provide healthy foods for their community, teach others how to grow their own food, and create green jobs. On their six acres, they grow vegetables, fruits, and nuts and raise livestock.

"Our vision is to be the leading pioneers in permaculture education in the world and we want to build a permaculture demonstration site in New Jersey," said Akirah. Permaculture emphasizes care of the earth, care of people and mutual benefit. "We plan to embody these permaculture principles in our lives and our work."

Ubuntu Permaculture Mission uses climate-friendly techniques to boost the ability of soil to sequester carbon from the atmosphere.

The Foodshed Alliance is in the process of interviewing other farmers to rent other sections of the farm in Sergeantsville.

Locktown Stone Church Fall Concert Series

The Locktown Stone Church is excited to announce its 2023 Fall Concert Series at the Church. All concerts start at 4pm and last approximately one hour, with no intermission. Light refreshment is served following each performance, giving concert goers a chance to speak with the performers. Tickets are $15 per person per performance, or $40 per person for all three concerts.

October 1: Filament, a chamber ensemble of Philadelphia-based period-instrument soloists. Comprising a core trio of violin, viola da gamba, and keyboards, its founding members are Evan Few, Elena Kauffman, and John Walhausen. Currently entering its fifth season, Filament presents historically informed concerts. Filament's mission is to move and pique the curiosity of diverse audiences and to continue the important work of uncovering and sharing unique and extraordinary music.

October 8: Blue Jersey Band, which brings an eclectic mix of swing, gypsy jazz, and bluegrass to their performances. The Blue Jersey Band plays the Music of Django Reinhardt. Born in a gypsy caravan in 1910, Django Reinhardt blended his native gypsy music with American jazz to create a new genre of music known as gypsy jazz, man ouch or hot club. He wrote many unique and original melodies which lent themselves to improvisation. Blue Jersey Band members Ellen Ruck (guitar and vocals) and Frank Ruck (mandolin, guitar, and banjo) have been studying gypsy jazz for over 20 years. Joining them is bassist Kai Gibson, who is fluent in many genres of music including jazz, blues, bluegrass, rock, and Latin music among others.

October 15: City Winds Harp and Flute Duo will play lite classical, opera, and waltz music. Crispian Fordham and Meredyth Coleman will bring to life your favorite and recognizable songs from classical music with their flute and harp duo. See the instruments up close and speak with the musicians of City Winds Trio.

The Concert Series relies on sponsors for funding. If you would like to become a sponsor, please email us at info@locktownstonechurch.org. Thank you and please join us this Fall.

Wild and Scenic Delaware River Talk

Robert McEwan from the Lower Wild and Scenic Delaware River Partnership (LDWSR) made a presentation at the Environmental Commission meeting on July 19. The LDWSR is part of the national wild and scenic river system, a partnership program between the National Park Service, state and local entities, non-profit organizations and more, along the Delaware River between the Delaware Water Gap and Washington's Crossing.

Mr. McEwan was seeking the Environmental Commission's support for the LDWSR's management plan to include expansion into smaller tributaries and streams including Delaware Township's Lockatong, Wickecheoke and Alexauken Creeks which flow into the Delaware River.

Mr. McEwan explained the tributary designation does not open private lands, through which they run, to public access, nor affect existing uses of private property.

The Environmental Commission requested a copy of the management plan, and a copy of the proposed resolution for consideration at its September 20, 2023 meeting. If approved, the resolution will move to the Township committee for its consideration.

St. Baldrick's Fundraising Event Childhood Cancer Awareness

Most of us think of September as the month our children go back to school but September should also remind us of those children unable to return to school. While none of us like to think of children and cancer in the same thought, childhood cancer is very real. It occurs regularly, randomly and spares no ethnic group or geographic region. Every two minutes a child is diagnosed with cancer and one in five will not survive. Of those who survive, two out of three will suffer long-term effects from their treatment. Newer, safer treatment options are needed to offer the hope of a long and healthy life for every child.

The St. Baldrick's Foundation is the largest private funder of the most promising childhood cancer research. The 11th Annual St. Baldrick's Rays of Hope Head Shave and Auction will be held at Sergeantsville Firehouse on Sept. 24, 2023 between noon and 4 p.m. This event in our tiny community has made a powerful impact worldwide in the fight against childhood cancer raising over $550,000 and playing a large part in seven new research projects!

This year's event will be the last head shave and auction in Sergeantsville. With the probability of the Sergeantsville Post Office being re-located to the Firehouse Banquet Hall before September 2024, we will have to initiate other avenues to raise much needed funding for childhood cancer research and continue our quest to raise awareness. If you have never attended one of our events, please don't miss this one! It is a powerful, moving experience! There will be laughter, tears, good times and some awesome auction items. If you ever wanted to shave your head or to volunteer, this is the year! Children currently fighting cancer and survivors need you, they need HOPE.

To register to shave, volunteer, or to make a donation please visit: www.StBaldricks.org/events/RaysofHope23. If you own a business and can donate an item or gift card for the auction, have questions about St. Baldrick's or this event, please reach out to me at grams-wack@gmail.com. My heartfelt thanks to all who have shaved, volunteered, donated and attended over the years and helped in any way to make this success possible.

Well Water Testing

The Delaware Township Environmental Commission and the Raritan Headwaters Association (RHA) are co-sponsoring a community well-testing program for homeowners to test their drinking water for chemical and biological contaminants at a reduced cost.

Water test kits are available for purchase on Wednesday, September 20th from 5:00-7:00 pm and on Saturday, September 23rd from 9:00 am to 12:00 pm at the Delaware Township Municipal Building.

You can pre-order your test kits by visiting www.TestMyWell.org.

Sample containers and completed paperwork must be returned to the Township Department of Public Works Garage (816 Sergeantsville Rd.) on Monday, September 25th between 7:00-9:30 am.

When was the last time you had your well water tested? Public health authorities recommend annual testing. If your well has not been tested for several years, now is the time to test. Unlike public drinking water systems, private wells are not checked for contamination before the water is sent to the tap. Households that use private wells must take special precautions to ensure the safety of their drinking water supplies.

Safe drinking water is essential to good health. Testing your well water for chemical and biological contamination is important since many contaminants can be harmful, even though they are tasteless and odorless. Nitrates and bacteria, which can lead to immediate and serious health conditions, may be found in well water as a result of a poorly performing septic system or a nearby agricultural source.

Two naturally occurring elements, arsenic and radon, are also commonly found in well water in northwestern New Jersey. Scientific studies associate long-term exposure to arsenic and radon with cancer and other health effects.

For a complete listing of the available tests and the associated prices, please see "What Should I Test My Well Water For?" and for help in determining what you should sample for, refer to the "Water Testing Decision Guide" on the Township's website (www.DelawareTwpNJ.org)

For more information about RHA's well-testing program or with questions on what you should test your well water for, please email Samantha LaRocca at welltesting@raritanheadwaters.org or call (908) 234-1852 ext. 401.

Please note that the sample results cannot be used to satisfy the Private Well Testing Act if you are selling or renting your home. The sample results from the community well-testing program should be used for your information to assess your drinking water quality.

Delaware Township History

Delaware Township has many historic sites. You probably drive past, over, or through some of them every day. Individually registered historic properties include: the Green-Sergeants Covered Bridge, Locktown Baptist Church, and many of our stone or metal-truss bridges. We also have designated "Historic Districts" (HD). They include: the Covered Bridge HD; Delaware & Raritan Canal HD; Headquarters HD; Raven Rock HD; Sand Brook HD; Sergeantsville HD; Rosemont Rural Agricultural District HD, and our multi-property "Historic Bridges of Delaware Township" which now contains 26 bridges!

It's important to note that a "Historic District" designation is a way to express the community's pride and interest in preserving the historic nature of a feature, place, or area. It is important to understand that this title only restricts the activities of government agencies working in a district, not individual owners. For example, such a designation would make it difficult for the County to widen Route 523 or 604 as they traverse several historic districts.

Nominating a property for the State & National Registers of Historic Places involves compiling detailed historical research. Anyone can nominate a property, but it is usually done by historic preservation professionals because of the specialized work involved. Nominations are submitted to the NJ Historic Preservation Office (NJHPO) for the State Register, and ultimately to the National Park Service, which is the official repository for the National Register.

The NJHPO has a robust website with many useful links. [Search NJHPO.] For local history, check out the wealth of information at goodspeedhistories.com or historymapping.org

On the Township website, under 'Boards, Commissions, and Committees - All Committees', you can find the Historic Advisory Committee page where we have posted the paperwork that was used to nominate the existing districts listed above. In addition, there are other documents and links. As part of our outreach goal, we will be adding content to News From The Bridge.

The Historic Advisory Committee meets the second Wednesday of every month at 7:30 on the 2nd floor of the municipal building. All are welcome, and we are seeking new members. Anyone can join, and if you have interest or experience in archaeology or historic architecture, we especially encourage you to contact Chairperson Liza Davis at dthistoricadvisorycommittee@gmail.com.
